

ETI Recognises Our Success!

Concern about the percentage of pupils achieving poor educational outcomes (as measured by % pupils achieving 5+ GCSEs including GCSE English & Maths), particularly those schools with high levels of social deprivation (as measured by Free School Meals Entitlement) led the Department of Education to commission the Education and Training Inspectorate to carry out a survey of "Best Practice" in these two important areas.

The English Department was delighted to be included in this survey and asked to write a report detailing the teaching strategies and resources they use to achieve their excellent results. Extracts from our report was included in the document ETI launched: 'Survey of Best Practice in English and Mathematics in Post-Primary Schools'. This was a very proud moment for all members of Newtownhamilton High English Department.
